Crocodile Attack!

If you were swimming at the edge of the water in Southern Florida in the US, and you saw a crocodile coming towards you, what would you do? Would you get out of the water and run away fast, make a loud noise or pretend to be dead? Or would you try to fight it?

Well, all three of these are possible, but the best thing to do depends on where the crocodile is at the time. If it comes towards you on land, experts say you should turn around and run away as fast as possible. Crocodiles can run faster than humans over a short distance, but they soon get tired. If they miss their first chance to catch their victim, they usually start looking for something else.

If you're in the water, then splash around to make a
